BEING A MAN OF HOPE

BY MAURICE BLUMBERG

"If only for this life we have hope in Christ, we are to be pitied more than all men" (1 Cor 15:9).

"We have this hope as an anchor for the soul, firm and secure" (Heb 6:19).

For many people in the world, hope is just another word for desire: I sure hope I win the lottery. I hope my kid wins that award or gets into that school. However, as Catholic Christian men, our hope is more closely related to an unshakeable confidence based on the sure promises of God. Although Christian hope and faith are closely related, Christian hope has more to do with a "confident longing," usually for a future event (for example, heaven, eternal life, being with/seeing Jesus), whereas faith is a "confident trust" in God for Who He is, and a trust that He will fulfill all His promises.

Christian hope enables us to persevere as men in trust and obedience, even when the odds seem weighted heavily against us. Have you ever been in a situation where you hoped for something but lacked the faith to be sure that God would accomplish what He promised? Weren't you utterly surprised when God came through? Or, if your prayer wasn't answered as you hoped it would, weren't you equally surprised to find yourself still peaceful, knowing that somehow God would work a good from a difficult situation, and you could trust in God's plan for your life?

What do we place our hope in? Ultimately, our hope is in the Lord. And the Lord, Whose promises never fail, will surely give us all we can hope for in Him. The Greek word for hope, elpizo, means to anticipate, to expect, to place confidence in. These are not words of mere possibility. These are words of certainty. When we place our hope in the Lord, we can be certain that He will not fail us. God is trustworthy and faithful; He will bring about His promises. For our part, He asks that we believe and trust in Him.

LET US TAKE A DEEPER LOOK AT THE BASIS OF OUR HOPE:

Our hope is in the transforming power of Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit. Through Jesus's death, resurrection, and ascension, the Holy Spirit has been poured out. By this Spirit — Jesus wants to minister to each of us as intimately as He did to His first followers. He wants to heal us physically and emotionally and mend broken relationships. God wants to make us all heirs of His kingdom. We can expect to see Him work in us and our families today. We need to allow Jesus to lift us out of our limited view of life and produce a hunger in us to experience even more of the kingdom of heaven right now.

Our hope is in the Second Coming of Christ. God's kingdom has been advancing from the very beginning of time. It will continue to advance until it is perfectly fulfilled at Jesus's glorious return. We can receive a foretaste of this kingdom now, even as we wait for it to be fully established at the Second Coming. Jesus is among us now, and by the power of the Spirit we can know His presence and His touch.

Our hope is in the eternal life that we have through faith in Jesus Christ. Our hope is that one day, we will be so filled with the life and love of our God, that we will actually become like Jesus (cf. 1 Jn 3:2). On that day, we will be presented to the Father holy, free of reproach and blame (cf. Col 1:22). Then "They recognized Jesus at the breaking of bread."

Put your Hope in God!

Psalm 42:5

our loving Father will welcome us into our heavenly home, and we will experience eternal joy in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ. The attitude of our hearts, while we eagerly await the fulfillment of this promise, is to treasure it and obey God's word.

Our Father has fulfilled His perfect plan through Jesus, our Savior and Lord. His promises are true and will be fulfilled. As we believe in these promises, we can be men of hope even when our sin or difficult situations discourage us. It is possible that we may not see immediate results. We will still see sin, and we will always want to see more change. No one among us is perfect. Still, we can place our hope in God, who is true to His word. By the power of His Spirit, Jesus has enabled us to become perfect, as He and the Father are perfect.

When we take God's promises as the basis of our hope, we will receive the faith we need to carry us through any trial or difficulty. We will experience His peace and love, even if the "vision" seems slow in coming (cf. Hb 2:3). We will be confident and secure in our God. He will never disappoint us, never let us down. Instead, He will enable us to face our sins and weaknesses with hope, knowing that Jesus has won our full redemption. Otherwise, we will fall short of the fullness of life that God wants to give us.

God wants to give us hope and confidence; He wants to be close to us. As we learn to rely on Him and His great promises, our lives will change. And, through His unending grace, our hope is that we will become deeper lovers of God and one another, just as Jesus commanded. So let us place our hope in Jesus. He will never leave us or forsake us.

SATURDAY MORNING COFFEE SHOP

We thank our soon-to-be retiring Saturday Morning Coffee Shop baristas and organisers, Lucy & Gerard Price & Joscelyn & Neil Murphy for their eight or so years of not only providing a great social occasion for parishioners, but donating their profits to charity. It has been a huge effort and we all are deeply appreciative.

Fr Greg would like to see this opportunity for parishioners to gather by continuing the coffee shop and would like to hear from people who may be interested in being barista trained and being on a roster to keep it going.

CF. PS 65:1-2

Cry out with joy to God, all the earth; O sing to the glory of his name.

O render him glorious praise, alleluia.

FIRST READING

ACTS 3:13-15. 17-19

A reading from the Acts of the Apostles

You have killed the prince of life; God, however, raised him from the dead.

Peter said to the people: 'You are Israelites, and it is the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the God of our ancestors, who has glorified his servant Jesus, the same Jesus you handed over and then disowned in the presence of Pilate, after Pilate had decided to release him. It was you who accused the Holy One, the Just One, you who demanded the reprieve of a murderer while you killed the prince of life. God, however, raised him from the dead, and to that fact we are the witnesses.

'Now I know, brothers, that neither you nor your leaders had any idea what you were really doing; this was the way God carried out what he had foretold, when he said through all his prophets that his Christ would suffer. Now you must repent and turn to God, so that your sins may be wiped out.'

The Word of the Lord

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

PS 4:2. 4. 7. 9. R. V.7

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

When I call, answer me, O God of justice; from anguish you released me, have mercy and hear me!

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

It is the Lord who grants favours to those whom he loves; the Lord hears me whenever I call him.

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

'What can bring us happiness?' many say.

Lift up the light of your face on us, O Lord.

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

I will lie down in peace and sleep comes at once, for you alone, Lord, make me dwell in safety.

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

SECOND READING

1 JN 2:1-5

A reading from the first letter of St John

Jesus Christ is the sacrifice that takes away our sins and those of the whole world.

I am writing this, my children, to stop you sinning; but if anyone should sin, we have our advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, who is just; he is the sacrifice that takes our sins away, and not only ours, but the whole world's.

We can be sure that we know God only by keeping his commandments.

Anyone who says, 'I know him', and does not keep his commandments, is a liar, refusing to admit the truth.

But when anyone does obey what he has said, God's love comes to perfection in him.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

Alleluia, alleluia!

Lord Jesus, make your word plain to us: make our hearts burn with love when you speak.

GOSPEL

LK 24:35-48

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke

It was written that the Christ would suffer and on the third day rise from the dead.

The disciples told their story of what had happened on the road and how they had recognised Jesus at the breaking of bread.

They were still talking about all this when Jesus himself stood among them and said to them, 'Peace be with you!' In a state of alarm and fright, they thought they were seeing a ghost. But he said, 'Why are you so agitated, and why are these doubts rising in your hearts? Look at my hands and feet; yes, it is I indeed. Touch me and see for yourselves; a ghost has no flesh and bones as you can see I have.' And as he said this he showed them his hands and feet. Their joy was so great that they could not believe it, and they stood dumbfounded; so he said to them, 'Have you anything here to eat?' And they offered him a piece of grilled fish, which he took and ate before their eyes.

Then he told them, 'This is what I meant when I said, while I was still with you, that everything written about me in the Law of Moses, in the Prophets and in the Psalms, has to be fulfilled.' He then opened their minds to understand the scriptures, and he said to them, 'So you see how it is written that the Christ would suffer and on the third day rise from the dead, and that, in his name, repentance for the forgiveness of sins would be preached to all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem. You are witnesses to this.'

SCRIPTURE COMMENTARY

BY DIANNE BERGANT CSA

Peter's Christology is rooted in Israel's prophetic tradition. With language reminiscent of the Suffering Servant tradition (cf. Isa 53:11-12), he calls Jesus God's Servant and describes him as a righteous sufferer. He traces God's action from the promises to the ancestors, to the choice of Moses as leader of the people to freedom, and finally to the glorification of the crucified Jesus. He contracts light and darkness, insisting that, despite the strength of the powers of death, the forces of life are ultimately triumphant. While Peter blames his hearers for the death of Jesus, he acquits them of some of the guilt by ascribing their offence to ignorance. From God's point of view, Jesus' suffering and death bring their messianic expectations to fulfilment.

The responsorial psalm expresses both lament and confidence. The verses open with the psalmist in great distress, turning to God and pleading for relief. Relying on the blessings of that past, the psalmist is confident that God will intervene. Faith and confidence are based on both personal innocence and divine trustworthiness. The appeal for God's favour is taken from the ancient blessing of the high priest Aaron (cf. Num 6:25f). The image suggests that God's face lights up with pleasure at the sight of the righteous. The psalmist is filled with joy as a result of the relationship with God. Confidence in God fills him with gladness and calms his fears and anxieties.

Knowledge of God is a very important theme in the Letter of John. This passage, which insists that true knowledge leads to observance of God's commandments, seems to denounce gnosticism, which claims that knowledge itself is salvific. The major portion of the reading offers encouragement for those times when the Christians stray from righteousness and do in fact sin. In these times, Jesus will be an advocate (paráklitos) for them before God. Several themes together provide a profile of the exalted Christ: He is now in the presence of God, having been raised from the dead; he is righteous, despite the fact that he was condemned to death as a criminal; his blood is the sacrificial offering that atones for sins. Finally, there is an eschatological character to God's love.

The gospel passage identifies the two major themes found in most post-resurrection appearance accounts: the experience of the risen Lord; and the ritual meal of the community. Jesus addresses his disciples with the customary Jewish greeting: Peace be with you! They are terrified, for they think he is a ghost. After rebuking them for having doubts, Jesus attempts to dispel their doubts by showing that it is really he. The final demonstration of his corporeal reality is his eating a piece of cooked fish. Although this is not the official ritual meal of the community, it may have eucharistic overtones. Having assured the disciples of his bodily resurrection, Jesus proceeds to explain his suffering and death by turning to the scriptures.
