SCRIPTURE COMMENTARY

BY BRENDAN BYRNE SJ

As far as the Gospel reading (Mark 9:30-37), is concerned we are now at that point of Mark's Gospel where the whole focus lies upon Jesus' attempt to educate his disciples about his coming fate in Jerusalem. They now know that he is the Messiah (8:29) but cling to the conventional understanding of the role: a ruler of David's line who would triumphantly restore the fortunes of Israel. They find it very difficult to set that understanding together with Jesus' insistence, heard again in today's Gospel, that he is to be betrayed and put to death. They do not fully understand what he is saying and they are afraid to ask him.

Their fear is not lack of confidence to question Jesus but fear of what he might more plainly reveal. They half know what he is saying and, in an understandably human way, shrink from full knowledge of the unpalatable truth. They prefer to cling to the hopes and exciting prospect for themselves that being close associates of the Messiah as conventionally understood would entail.

This, presumably, has been the subject of their discussion on the road. They have been arguing about which of them would have the top roles and positions of honour in the coming messianic kingdom.

Nothing in fact could be more at odds with what Jesus has been attempting to communicate than such disputes about greatness. When, doubtless with some awareness, he questions them about the subject of their argument on the road, they guiltily remain silent; they know – or at least half-know – how inappropriate such talk is.

So Jesus decides to dramatise the instruction. Insisting that the one who would be first must be last and servant of all, he takes a child from the house and sets it in front of them all. Then putting his arms around the child, he makes an extraordinary statement of self-identification: 'Whoever welcomes one such child in my name welcomes me, and whoever welcomes me welcomes not me but the one who sent me' (v 37).

To appreciate the full force of Jesus' action, we have to put aside the idealisation of childhood that arose in the nineteenth century. In the ancient world children were precious, no doubt, to their parents, but had no social status or value whatsoever; until adulthood they were nobodies. For someone outside the family to 'welcome' a child would be to turn prevailing values and social mores upside down; it would require putting aside all one's ideas of self-importance and adult status, and simply meeting the child as an equal, as 'child' to child. That, says Jesus, is what the disciples must practise – because in so doing they will be welcoming him and the Father who stands behind his entire life and mission, which is not one of dominance and being served but one of service, destined to culminate in the supreme 'service' of the cross (10:45).

"ANYONE WHO WELCOMES ONE OF THESE LITTLE CHILDREN IN MY NAME, WELCOMES ME."

Not only, then, does Jesus' gesture challenge the disciples' notion of messiahship. It goes to the heart of their – and our – understanding of God. Is God to be thought of as an extra-terrestrial supreme Ruler to whom nothing but fear and service is due? Or is the God revealed by Jesus a God whose primary gesture towards human beings is that of One who serves, One who comes among us in the guise of a child? Jesus' gesture of hugging the child in front of all shows more powerfully than any words could express the preciousness of each and every human life, no matter how small, how insignificant, in the sight of God. We are all – in our 'littleness' rather than our achievement – hugged by Jesus in this moment.

The challenge to worldly values and estimation that the disciples found so difficult confronts the Church in every age. After the early centuries of persecution the leaders of the Church emerged from the catacombs at the time of Constantine to take on many of the trappings and roles of Roman officials. We are now witnessing the end of that 'Constantinian Church', the Church where leaders are accorded honours and tributes more reflective of worldly power than the way of Jesus. The current sexual abuse crisis is hammering the last nail into the coffin of that church. The pain that goes along with this stripping of status and honour is close to that experienced by the disciples of Jesus as they struggled both to hear and to resist what he was saying. Like them, we are all on the way to Jerusalem with Jesus.

The Second Reading, James 3:16 – 4:3, appropriately enough approaches the same issue of power and ambition in the uncompromising language typical of this letter.

The First Reading, Wisdom 2:12, 17-20, anticipates the mockery and taunting Jesus will hear upon the cross.

Pope Francis' Prayer Intention

SEPTEMBER

For The Cry Of The Earth

Let us pray that each of us listens with our hearts to the cry of the Earth and of the victims of environmental disasters and the climate crisis, making a personal commitment to care for the world we inhabit.

FR. Francis Jordan

Yes, heart of my heart... How long? How long will you be tossed about? - Once glad, then sad, or feeling lost?...Yet, however restless now you may be, you will once rest in God eternally.

ENTRANCE ANTIPHON

I am the salvation of the people, says the Lord.

Should they cry to me in any distress, I will hear them, and I will be their Lord for ever.

FIRST READING

WISDOM 2:12, 17-20

A reading from the book of Wisdom.

The godless say to themselves, 'Let us lie in wait for the virtuous man, since he annoys us and opposes our way of life, reproaches us for our breaches of the law and accuses us of playing false to our upbringing.

Let us see if what he says is true, let us observe what kind of end he himself will have.

If the virtuous man is God's son, God will take his part and rescue him from the clutches of his enemies.

Let us test him with cruelty and with torture, and thus explore this gentleness of his and put his endurance to the proof.

Let us condemn him to a shameful death since he will be looked after – we have his word for it.'

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Ps 53:3-6. 8. R. v.6

(R.) The Lord upholds my life.

1. O God, save me by your name; by your power, uphold my cause.

O God, hear my prayers; listen to the words of my mouth.

(R.) The Lord upholds my life.

2. For proud men have risen against me, ruthless men seek my life.

They have no regard for God.

(R.) The Lord upholds my life.

3. But I have God for my help.

The Lord upholds my life.

I will sacrifice to you with willing heart and praise your name for it is good.

(R.) The Lord upholds my life.

SECOND READING

JAMES 3:16 – 4:3

A reading from the letter of St James

Wherever you find jealousy and ambition, you find disharmony, and wicked things of every kind being done; whereas the wisdom that comes down from above is essentially something pure; it also makes for peace, and is kindly and considerate; it is full of compassion and shows itself by doing good; nor is there any trace of partiality or hypocrisy in it. Peacemakers, when they work for peace, sow the seeds which will bear fruit in holiness.

Where do these wars and battles between yourselves first start? Isn't it precisely in the desires fighting inside your own selves? You want something and you haven't got it; so you are prepared to kill. You have an ambition that you cannot satisfy; so you fight to get your way by force. Why you don't have what you want is because you don't pray for it; when you do pray and don't get it, it is because you have not prayed properly, you have prayed for something to indulge your own desires.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

2 THESSALONIANS 2:14

Alleluia, alleluia!

God has called us with the gospel to share in the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Alleluia!

GOSPEL

MARK 9:30-37

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Mark.

After leaving the mountain Jesus and his disciples made their way through Galilee; and he did not want anyone to know, because he was instructing his disciples; he was telling them, 'The Son of Man will be delivered into the hands of men; they will put him to death; and three days after he has been put to death he will rise again.' But they did not understand what he said and were afraid to ask him.

They came to Capernaum, and when he was in the house he asked them, 'What were you arguing about on the road?' They said nothing because they had been arguing which of them was the greatest. So he sat down, called the Twelve to him and said, 'If anyone wants to be first, he must make himself last of all and servant of all.' He then took a little child, set him in front of them, put his arms round him, and said to them, 'Anyone who welcomes one of these little children in my name, welcomes me; and anyone who welcomes me welcomes not me but the one who sent me.'

COMMUNION ANTIPHON

PSALM 118:4-5

You have laid down your precepts to be carefully kept; may my ways be firm in keeping your statutes.

SAFEGUARDING

NATIONAL CHILDREN'S WEEK

As we come to the end of National Child Protection Week and Safeguarding Sunday, we find ourselves approaching National Children's Week. This is an annual event that is celebrated across Australia, commencing this year on October 19th, 2024. The events aim is to draw to the attention of all Australians the need to be mindful of both the rights and achievements of all children, ensuring children are given the right to enjoy their childhoods. The theme for this year is drawn from the United Nations Charter on the Rights of the Child, that being Article 24: children have the right to a clean and safe environment.
